7.	How was the Class advertised in the neighborhood?	Next Door and email blast  The screenshot shows a Facebook post titled "First ever movie night at Riggsbee Farm pool!" by Joe Rossabi from Riggsbee Farm, dated 29 Aug. The post text says: "FALL is around the corner! Let's welcome it by watching a movie under the stars and spending a relaxed and joyous Saturday evening with family and neighbors. Sounds fun - right? Please block September 17th, 7 pm onwards for a first-of-its-kind screening in our neighborhood. We will provide free pizza but you are welcome to bring your own dinner if you prefer." It also shows 7 "THANKED!" and 8 "REPLY" buttons, and a list of people who thanked Joe: "You, Tricia, Lynda, and 4 others thanked Joe".
8.	How did the class go? A brief description	Movie was well received and started lots of discussion – mostly within families. Also led to suggestion to have neighborhood farmer’s market to allow people to share produce from home vegetable gardens.
9.	Incentives/giveaways if any offered	Two tickets to Winter Wonderland festival organized annually by Town of Cary
10.	Any green event guidelines followed?	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Compostable tableware was used for food. • Food purchased from a locally owned business. • No food was discarded and participants were requested to take home the left overs which they did. • Recycling bin was made available and used correctly.
