7.	How was the class advertised in the neighborhood?	Email
8.	How did the class go? A brief description	This was one of the very few events when most of the registered attendees did not show up for the class. 12 residents had registered, however only 2 came. The neighborhood organizer acknowledged that there could have been a communication breakdown, as some of the attendees could have been looking at cars in the larger event instead of attending the formal information session that started at a "rally point" of a booth. Fortunately, Cary council member Lori Bush who was attending the bigger event (National Drive Electric Week celebrations) joined the group with her family and a few other Cary citizens. Ultimately, there were a total of 7 participants. The instructor did an informal presentation indoors (Mayton Inn lobby area); shared resources and answered questions.
9.	Incentives/giveaways if any offered	Drawing for a $25 gift certificate to Mayton Inn, a Cary Downtown business with strong commitment to sustainability. 2 Tickets that were donated by our PRCR Department were given away as well.
