6.	# of participants	17 (10 adults and 7 kids (ages 6 and above))
7.	How was the Class advertised in the neighborhood?	Facebook, emails
8.	How did the class go? A brief description	The class was received very well. Several families participated. The class started with the instructor Larry Zoller giving some background information on birds and their ecosystems. Larry then demonstrated how to assemble the birdhouses. He had brought along necessary tools and supplies for the same. It was heartening to see young kids hammering nails and using the drill for their birdhouse along with their parent(s). Strong precautions were taken that each kid was always supervised by an adult. The weather was nice and helped get a good turnout for the class as well as make it a fun event.
9.	Incentives/giveaways if any offered	3 birdhouse pole assemblies raffled; light refreshments served.
10.	Any green event guidelines followed?	Raffle prizes purchased from a local business called Wild Birds Unlimited; Refreshments bought from a locally owned business; compostable paper products used.
