The historic Page-Walker Arts & History Center is a beautiful location for corporate retreats, business meetings, family celebrations, weddings and receptions. Hardwood floors, high ceilings, large windows and fine art provide an elegant, intimate and charming setting. The beautifully landscaped garden area offers an excellent setting for wedding ceremonies and gatherings.

Town of Cary Founder, Allison Francis Page, built the Page-Walker ca. 1868 as a railroad hotel. The Page-Walker Hotel is listed on the National Register for Historic Places. A complete restoration in the 1990s converted the building into an arts and history center for the citizens of Cary. Today the center is alive with classes, events, performances, meetings, corporate retreats, receptions and exhibitions, including fine arts exhibits featuring local and regional artists' works.
